Dear Polly,

I have just heard the very sad news about Jasjit Singh's death and wanted to write to express my sincere condolences to both his wife and everyone at the Centre for Air Power Studies. Over the past year I have had the enormous pleasure of meeting Jasjit on many occasions and I was always delighted to be able to attend the major CAPS conferences. As the driving force behind the Centre's activities, he was truly remarkable. Always enthusiastic and committed, his determination that Air Power should be properly recognized as a key component of modern warfare was an inspiration to everyone with an interest in military aviation and I did much to ensure that the complex issues associated with the use of contemporary air power are properly understood. His death will, therefore, be a significant loss to the academic community but, more importantly, to his family and many friends and colleagues. I would be most grateful if you would pass on my sincere sympathies to Mrs Singh - she is very much in my thoughts at this sad time.

With deepest sympathies,
